Absorption and elimination of nicotine following acute or chronic dosing of nicotine patch. To determine the absorption and elimination of nicotine following administration of nicotine transdermal delivery (TTS) systems in healthy male volunteers and to compare these results with those previously published for nicotine gum. Randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled, crossover study with 11 subjects in each treatment sequence. Subjects were randomly assigned to receive two different TTS (TTS-1, n = 11; TTS-2, n = 11) or one of two nicotine gum (GUM-1, n = 11; GUM-2, n = 11) treatment conditions. Each subject received two TTS treatments or two nicotine gum treatments (each separated by a 1-week washout period) during a 2-week dosing phase and two TTS or nicotine gum treatments (each separated by a 1-week washout period) during a 7-week postdosing phase. The highest observed plasma concentration of nicotine following nicotine gum and TTS treatment was 133.4 +/- 13.5 and 125.7 +/- 22.7 ng/mL, respectively. For the nicotine gum and TTS, the mean pharmacokinetic parameters were as follows: area under the concentration-time curve (AUC) 0-infinity, 14.4 +/- 2.4 and 11.3 +/- 1.8 mg*hr/L; Cmax, 58.6 +/- 6.1 and 48.1 +/- 7.8 mg/L; tmax, 9.6 +/- 0.7 and 9.0 +/- 0.7 hr; and t1/2 f988f36e3a
